Well, lots of ways to get in touch with the show and tell you, of course, what's on the show. Gee? And there was some news about something bisexual during the week. I wonder if I might talk about it. Yes. Mitch Brown. Come to that in a second. There's a couple of other issues that I suppose need that need attention. And I'm going, I will give the content numbers in a second because when we get to them where I think we're going to need them content, the phone numbers for support for content notes, that is if you want to get in touch with the show about anything out of the pan 855 at gmail.com SMS 6, 1 4 5 6, 7 5 1215 posts on Mastodon bluesky and Twitter Instagram going up shortly at salgoldsaidso and that's the bottom line and posts on Facebook, my page, Sally Goldner that and out of the pan 3 CR 855 am Melbourne postal address PO Box 1277 Collingwood 3066 any opinions expressed on this program are strictly my own will give the content note numbers, being Q life, including switchboard in Victoria and Tasmania and but National of course on 1800 184527 and rainbow door. And we opened up today with Shane Howard from the album of way, way, way back, his second solo album after leaving Goanna. And when the well runs dry, well sometimes it. Well, well, well, sometimes it feels like it does. But there are some times when your cup is a cup is full of, and well, certainly during the week in the midweek, it's brown. I think filled a lot of people, good people's cup through on so many levels. And first things first, Mitch,

Congratulations on your courage, authenticity calmness and timing in terms of your disclosure as being a bisexual, man, the first out, bisexual man. No, part of past or present a FL means Players. Let's make that distinction. A lot of headlines didn't quite get it right and we want to acknowledge those women in AFL who have come out as bisexual, lesbian and to my knowledge at least two non-binary players as well. So let's get that one sorted but yeah, Mitch amazing seems to handle. Well I well I can you know, sort of not that's the biggest thing for years on this show. I've been saying that it will going to take a lot of people to do it. Together, Mitch has done it all by himself and that deserves tremendous, tremendous credit, you know, I think that's incredible and Whether you know, it's got to open the gates. So, to speak, to some extent, whether it's a trickle gate, stream gate, or a Floodgate Of past and present, a FL means players. But not just players officials, umpires administrators Etc, whether they're going to come out as gay or bi now, who knows. But at least you know, there's not that pressure of being the first. So Mitch you is Legend, you kick goals might and all that sort of thing. But

Deliberately. Well, did that slightly much, I blokey Australian voice. And you know, it's interesting when you listen to Mitch's story about how difficult was having to constantly, listen, to much, oh blokey stuff in the dressing rooms and homophobic stuff and the hyper-masculinity of AFL means. Wow, it must been incredibly difficult. You know, we have enough personal stories and documented evidence of how difficult

What it is to not be oneself on sexual orientation, and romantic orientation, gender identity and expression. And yet when it's that extreme environment, and it's not you, it's incredibly, you know, even more difficult and to having to listen to the things, he listen to, which I don't think bear repeating, you know, and all that sort of stuff, just incredible. There's been some range of

Media responses there's been a couple of good articles in the guardian who have seemed to let the way. Well, there's also been a bad one in the guardian which I think I need to talk about but yeah, obviously just very very welcome. You're not a personal level, you know, look it's not the biggest thing but as a by person the fact that the first man to come out as in Big inverted

Has other than heterosexual in a Feldman's is by there's a little bit of pride in that and maybe that flowed through to something, which I'll share later in the program. So yeah, very, very amazing. And well done to Mitch now. I just, yeah, it's been a huge week on that front and we need some good news in queer communities at the moment. You know, we are sad as it is to say seeing the old man.

Bowman think adapting, those words first they came for well they those who would oppose human rights dignity fairness and social justice. First, they came for the the trans and now they seem to be coming for the by whilst I don't. Obviously, I'm not saying obviously that this would have been much Browns intention. I think he's given by a big boost for people themselves and also

For in directly, in the striving, if you want to use that word against, you know, are in W J's. Now I know there's been lots of trolling and things on the internet of Mitch which is sort of, you know, really woeful. But you know, the

You know, the situation is not good. Now I also just an apology the gut the article that I'm not happy with is not in the guardian but it's written by someone who used to write for them and I want to come back to that as well. It's just this is understandably, exciting and emotional, you know, so the other part of it, of course, is after the well, the situation and discussion with. I've are ranked higher in the suspension which Brown has chosen to

Mountain. Now that I think, you know, sort of, you know, I think says something as well that he's decided just to dig deep for the courage and come back at this time is, you know, really important and one-on-one Guardian article with the headline of which is Mitch Browns were Rich Browns, words spoke to the queer, footy community at a time when the AFL put it last by Sarah Guiney. Guin. Ey ey. Well done, Sarah who

Identifies themselves, I will say, as queer, you know, sort of, you know, because and then says in this article, quote, because that's the thing about the queer Community, where we apostrophise, so Sarah talking for. I'm going to say, I don't know if the hell all themselves we're no strangers to any of this hate-mongering, it doesn't get easy to whether it doesn't get less painful but where we've learned fight where to find the Salve, the

But you only meant the community is best. When we wrap our arms each other round, each other coax out a laugh and sit with the reminder, we're not alone and then goes on to say. But in the AFL that Community is, not yet exist for gay, bisexual or queer male players that much is clear from what Brown shared of his experience, and that's interesting in itself. I might have thought there may have been a in inverted, commas, underground type of network for gay bisexual, queer men, but no, you know, that Curious, you know, and that needs to be thought about Sarah goes on to say, but this to can change foot. He speaks the language of community, understands the Ebbs and flows. Bridging, the Gap would not take that big leap. If there is a concerted effort from the players and it seems there is some there has been good reaction from a lot of players from most of the clubs. Have now put out the 18 clubs of the AFL have put out a statement. I think we've got at least 16 by now, haven't Like what up with any news this morning you know sort of and this article goes on to say the AFL doesn't yet have a soft Landing place for closeted, men's players. The rainbow inclusion plan was released in 2024 too late for Brown. The frequency of slurs needs to be dealt with more effectively bigger cultural change enacted and a return to the promised Zero Tolerance would be more than welcome but there's movement. And you know, and sincere says at a time when we

Dwell on the work to be done. Brown has reminded us. We can also shine a light on the positives so it's not a story about hatred to story about love and what love looks like in action, but hope for a better call more kind future for Australian Rules Football and then she finishes the article she / they and more than anything. It's a story about a queer community that proudly joyously includes Mitch Brown X AFL player and bisexual, man. Yep. Well, let's hope that. The Mitch won't just be the only one from now on.

On I think there's only one song I could play as I need a breather and another surprise surprise moment here is the what puts close to the by anthem of this show from co-written and performed by one of them, two of my dear friends, James and Pete and it is getting by 3. 3 CR 855 am 3 CR Digital 3, CR dot org Dot 3 CR on demand out of the pan with Sally first broadcasting noon through one every Sunday afternoon. Thanks for your company and well, Mitch Brown in the news, there's two more articles to come in and lots of comments from roving reporter. As the technology Works sort of. He also a roving said that li roving. Loved his very thoughtful words, especially acknowledging his privilege as a white male. Do you know why he chose a podcast? I don't know that. I know there was an interview in the daily Oz I think is a West Australian newspaper and that's where it spread and you know, sort of so yeah but don't know why I chose a podcast probably you know, actual go with my guts, just come to me, coffee is kicking in

Maybe to do a podcast meant that he didn't have to do some sort of press conference with all sorts of questions being fired at him. And I don't think he's given any follow-up interview since I think that's actually a very shrewd approach to do it that way, which I think protects him as well. And then gives people time to digest the news so that that would be my gut but I've got the answer only a total guess. There's another good article in the H. Today I've got to get to today's papers

Knowledge in the homophobic sentiment at Grassroots level and where the seed is planted, according to the academic and past queer plays. Well, that's certainly true. And look at someone who worked on a program, I'm coordinated by the Victorian equal opportunity Human Rights Commission as it is now known over 10 years ago. The fair go sport campaign. Certainly things happen at the Grassroots but things can change there too. So, you know, I don't but also of course, we know

No, I think for on a show like this, that we know that the sources of I'm going to say homophobia, specifically are, you know, elements of religion politics media will, you know, at times will try to drum those up, its the big powers of society, but it also shows that maybe the Grassroots has the power. Certainly agree that blokey culture needs to be D Bogan. I just. Yep, that will get that into the Merriam-Webster Dictionary next year, roving, I

That's when it said you were words but yep, you'll get the credit, D Bogan izing. Yes, let's do that. And all you've popped the link to that article in one going to get to that sort of as we all work through the various bits of media to work through. So yeah. Lots to go through another good article in the guardian and that I want to mention Jonathan horn, who is the AF of the Aliens main AFL writer and always writes pretty world when analyzing the matches on and all sorts of things and, you know, sort of Jonathan horn says, as a 40 writer, I keep a shambolic database of current and former footballers, you know, and I know lots of journals will do this next bit. It's a kind of Bowie, As Americans would say, boy buo. Why? I can grab onto when I'm up against a nasty, deadline for five paragraph.

Sentence, something something. Something. And so Jonathan said here's what I wrote of in Nathan's twin married to a netballer, unlucky with injuries went and played in the are Mo's. So that any said this is scratching the surface. Well obviously so because the thing is if you're battling within yourself on something, these are my thoughts. You can't be your productive, best in the rest of your life. Whether it's football, Performing Arts, rocket science hairdressing, you know, your brains just clogged

Ugh. And that can not only apply to sexual or any sexual romantic orientation, gender, identity, or that sort of thing. And neurodivergent saw, all these sorts of things, there are sort of it also mentions how it 9/10. He brought up his sexuality with a teammate and the conversation was laughed away, which is sad. And I must remember that, you know, in the Danny lately documentary on Stan, nearly 12 months ago already or

Two years to you. Yeah, I sort of Danny one of Danny's then teammates, you know, sort of said I could see there was something bothering her, but didn't know how to support. Well, you know, you know, not knowing how to support, but outright rejecting is not good. I'm not going to repeat the much sort of words that have been quoted about showers. I just don't see the point, you know,

Yeah, that no one. Yeah, sort of came out and no one wants to be the superhero to do it. Well, although probably not. I doubt his intention Mitch has become that person. And, you know, this article from Jonathan horn ends with, there's the courage of brown to speak with Clarity. Optimism optimism. And with Grace qualities, the AFL has been lacking this past fourth

Night. He here some not-so-good media here. In my opinion, most of this article is good but I'm going to come to why it's not too good at the end. And also more, you know, sort of its this is from Gary. None in the age. Nine media. He says it's groundbreaking that he came out as bisexual rather than gay. Well, why does it have to be rather Gary, you know, if that's who he is, that's who he is, bisexual face.

Discrimination within the guy Community G. Yeah, this programs been talking about that for 15 years, which is why I left another station at the time, although, that station is improving. Now sort of, you know, Brown is smashed some stereotypes, Eric Dennison whose well noted as one of the leaders on queer and sports at the moment. But also I want to pay tribute to Carol and Simon's. You did so much work on this in through for many, many years.

On these issues of queer and Sport and brown has decided to talk about the sort of the culture and all that sort of thing. You know, sort of Browns had support from an ex-wife. And who says that he's living, the kind of value is living the values of the kind of man. I want our two boys to grow up to be men, that care and are proud of who they are. Yep, that's cool. Current wife is very proud.

And this is then where the article goes off track. And this is not the first time that this writer has not got it right on by The Voice, the unheard voice of the woman, he was married to other women. He's currently with now, obviously you can there's an understanding for so many partners of people who come out as whether the part, you know, person a comes out as any of, you know, I'll just say lgbtqa, I won't bring in two.

X into this different matter. In my opinion, I don't feel I can speak for it and partners can feel betrayed or have their life turned upside down. In this case, the woman that could be married to a man, you know, and talks about the the issues, some people do become allies. And unfortunately, none goes on to say, is into specialized in touring, the female partners of many come out.

You know, and the partners don't get sympathy. Well, that's not right. But let's not get into blaming anyone and unfortunately quite a service which is based in Sydney and someone else by coincidence separate to the Garret. The Mitch Brown story pointed out to me this week I'm sort of reluctant to name it. It's woman partners of Gabe. I'm in Services based in a Sydney and if you look at the website it just comes across as very 30 years out of date.

Patronising all the poor wives thing. And I have to say when I looked at this site this week, my first thought was Turf, sorry not sorry. And the thing is, it's not the first time. Gary, none has not really spoken for by people yours, truly and others around the country wrote to him when he was working with the guardian, a few years ago about that, that article and we never got a response from anyone. And I don't know, I don't care if someone had someone identifies his Gary,

And I had Gary identifies if you're not by, don't talk for us and if you are maybe you've got to look at something here because it's not right. And then last I'm going to come to long last to the article that roving has sent me from a couple of days ago, probably have seen it. It is by Rick Dennison, but I'll have a look at it during the next track and you know, we'll go through that as well. But welcome your comments.

Let's see if there's any more to come in and go through. Looks like there is, you know, sort of why can't the female part is of the male players. Also initiate change to that's a good question, you know, why can't it be a positive win-win solution will want to touch on that before the end of the day? And yes, I'll get to your last message as well during the show. Promise you on that driving is a couple of difficult topics to talk to amongst all

Is good news as well. What are we going to play next? Let's just pull something out, one way or another. I think we'll go with this particular track. If I can get the CD to work and all that sort of thing, because we're having one of those technological Days by the look of it or equipment days and hello, John Oliver, the founder of Joy, who used to talk to the equipment. I'm doing it, maybe it's hereditary.

Or something. But let's have a listen to Hunters & collectors from their album, living living in large rooms. And lounges. And here's a track that was on one of the earlier albums. Everything's on Fire, 3. CR 855 am 3 CR Digital 3, CR dot org, dot U 3 CR on demand out of the pan with Sally.

3 CR 855 am 3 CR Digital 3, CR dot org, dot U 3 CR on demand out of the pan with Sally first broadcasting known through one every Sunday afternoon. Thanks for your company. We just heard from Hunters & collectors, everything's on fire from the album living in large, rooms, and lounges, or perhaps, we could well, the roving reporter. You can, I didn't invent words, maybe it's liveing because of course, it's

A double Live CD live at the Continental Cafe, maybe you ever booked for ever blessed and live in the Pub's. Put grub and something like that. All right, yeah, let's come back to one. I'm going to stick with this today, because it is so important. What a quote, this article by Eric Dennison who now is one of the leaders in queer and sports type of research. And I think this one from the age is worth quoting 2014, the AFL-CIO appeared on National Television

The vision alongside leaders of, for others major sports. Find a historic commitment to eliminate homophobic Behavior. Homophobic Behavior, the league promised to become a world leader in tackling, the problem. And Eric writes, quote, it has failed. Heck instead, the afl's Live players like brown and the many current players, you must feel the hide their sexuality to work in unsafe environments. My emphasis that is why the public congratulations from AFL leaders ring Hollow Brown and others instead deserve an apology.

Le G before being forced to play in a harmful environment. The AFL promised to fix in quote. So, yep, maybe it can do it. Now, what I like about this article by Rick Dennison, he talks about the research, he and others have done, what something he's found to be effective, his pride games, and he says, like many people, I was skeptical of the benefits of Hosting them. That's why we conducted three separate studies to test their effectiveness including one that followed clubs over six years. We've considered Vote. We have consistently found players at clubs that hosted Pride games used about 50% less homophobic language than other clubs a key reason. Why Pride games are so effective is they give captains and leaders are reason or an excuse to start conversations about culture these events. Also give players permission to challenge, the constant use of homeless of hovik language, which is typically excused as harmless in inverted commas, banter end quote, and it's now time for change yet. Bang on Eric Behavioural.

Scientist faculty with Arts at Monash University so, yeah, there it is. I think we've covered it. Well, there's probably plenty more angles that we could cover on this. Probably going to be a watch and see type of thing. All right, there are a couple of other stories that you know, do need to be covered. Sadly, we sort of swing to the other end of things. This is where I'll invoke content notes for the first one for racism. The March is that are taking place this Weekend, what exactly their objectives, what are they been proud to be Australian white, you know the and you know it does seem hopefully that these people have tripped themselves up a bit with the incident, you know, the incident and with all great respect to the to police who have died and one who injured? No one deserves to be shot dead in that way. Whatever. Anyone thinks now, I sort of hopefully this is bad timing by these. Well, I'll say people who are organizing.

Seeing these so-called marches. And now it really is quite appalling. It was great to see the Victorian Minister for Multicultural Affairs. Put out a statement on Friday, quote, we stand with all Victorians, but especially those from Multicultural communities, who are concerned about the rallies planned across Australia and Sunday in the motivations of the people who organize them and message is clear. Whoever you are, whoever you love, whoever you Pro to, you are welcome here in Victoria, you deserve peace, safety and respect.

Generations of Migrant families have helped build Victoria contributing to our economy, in reaching our culture, and strengthening the communities. We share from small businesses to cultural Fest as places of worship, do sporting clubs, our Multicultural communities. Represent. The very best of our state's values Victorians completely reject racism and hate those. You purge. You will never win because multiculturalism is one of the most precious parts of our state. It wants what it what makes us Victorian in media. Release from Ingrid stick.

It the minister for Multicultural Affairs and also aging and it's kind of relevant Minister for mental health. You know what, listening to the sort of nonsense and vague stuff that's being spouted is, you know, really sort of right on the button. You know, the comments are right on the button about what you said. Now, I don't I decided to post this me.

His statement on my own Facebook page this morning, just before I got to posting about the show today. And now, sort of there's a couple of good comments from my friends, regardless of who it is. One is dog, whistling has always been a tool of extremists. It's headed why? The thirty first of all was protest, should concern us and it says it's his dog. Whistling has always been the tool of extremist. This is a me

I'm from somewhere in, I'll get the exact source for you shortly. In the 1930s, the Nazis didn't come out and say we want to commit genocide. They said we were protecting German culture and defending the Homeland from Outsiders. These phrases on the surface sounded patriotic but there was an agenda beneath to destroy Etc and so it's intentional and you know, and then this goes on to say that any protests that hides its organizers pushes, vague, slogans, positions minorities the threat isn't about Unity. It's

Vision. Yeah that's pretty on the button for me. And another here. There's also a similar meme, so it's going to be all sorts of things going on today. The thing that I want is a couple of things I want to say. First, there's also the regular free Garza rally at the same time in the city. So please, whoever you are. Even if you're just in the city to do some shopping, or go to the movies or whatever, or whatever you're doing, be very, very careful and

If it's not your thing, just stay as much as you can away from it. I think it could be very, very challenging there. And this leads I suppose to the second thing. I mean, you know, I just find it worrying that we seem to be becoming more polarized and extreme on so many issues nowadays and I don't think that's accidental. Now it's often been said that the real, you know, we often hear of the world from fate sort of play

Dina perspective of left versus right, which I don't agree with the real battle, is moderation versus extremism and often to me the extreme left and the extreme route, right? Sound extremely similar. When we go to regime's over time, we look at Nazi, Germany, and we look at Soviet Russia and really where they any much different. I don't think so. So, I think we need to be careful and we look at today, you know, I'll be very cautious in

What I say but the fact that it the appearance can be given at times that turfs and Neo-Nazi seem to find Common Ground. Hello, you know there's the parent extreme left and the apparent extreme, right? So yeah you know let's just get back to some moderation but where has this idea come from that it has become polarized. Well, have certain people been writing for years that scoffing at the sensible Centre? Well,

Who will as writers, what was their motive who were those people communicating that that's worth thinking about as well. So call me an old-fashioned hippie or something for, you know, peace, love and understanding seventies. But why can't we have that? Do we have to be, you know, a particular background to comment on an issue in terms of just saying, hey can't we just have kindness and respect and treat every person on how the basis of how each individual behaves not?

Type of person because they're in a group or, you know, sort of put people stereotype of whole group. It's just not, right. And I just feel like we've lost that somewhere. I've been very reluctant to speak about some issues on lately, not so beyond queer, because of that, not going to say any more on that still not quite feeling comfortable and safe to speak. Part of that, is my own troubles over the last years. I've had to look at

It's good for my mental health and just when things seemed to be going in the right direction that's gone backwards a bit. So you know, can we just I don't know. How do we how do we at the Grassroots? Who I think want to do the right thing? Get back our power. So power seems to be so centralized in the hands of big institutions, media in this case politics, seems not off. Seems so very Often to be unaccountable on other issues big business. Now, how do we decentralize power again? I don't have the answers but at least let's ask the question perhaps. So you know let's try to get some kindness back. I know that all sounds very woo. Woo and peace love and understanding but maybe the only thing we can really do is just to quietly. Do it in our own lives every day and see where that takes us. We try

I'm going to cut. I'm actually now seems like a good time to talk of the story that I was going to mention. This show is coming. Pretty much from the heart today last night and I don't, and here we are at 47 minutes and around 40 seconds. Here comes the wrestling reference, but in context, I promise you, this miss yours. Truly I was doing ring crew and ushering for a wrestling event last night, and couple of people weren't sure where their seats were and I took them over and there was a slight bit of

Confusion. So I'm going to just sit the group of people. It's at two seats across where they needed to be shuffled them across the other to set down, everybody's happy. And then the presumably sis woman, says my gay male friend here has come to see male wrestler, X. Now I make no, I'm just all I'm going to say. I'm not going to make any insinuations about gave me about the mail wrestler and their sexuality and I don't care either, of course. Well you know, look if the if the guy doesn't matter about the sexuality, if you want to come and enjoy,

I suppose in a respectful way. How someone's looking when they're wrestling? That's fine. And I something I would normally wouldn't say it but I just couldn't resist and I said well look I have the advantage of being by I get to look at everyone and the cisgender woman who I was talking to girls I'm by 2 and we did a by five and I said happy celebrate bisexuality month and off. We went so sometimes I think that was probably because of the Mitch Brown thing feeling so up and you know, we had a lot.

Laughs and I hopefully you know from a customer service perspective, it gave her an extra bit of an enjoyment on her night. So and I hope your friend had a good time watching the wrestler in question. Seriously, you know this is where we can spread our ripples. Mitch Brown has done it this week and maybe that's maybe there's an answer in there. I don't exactly know what it is. I never say that. I have all the answers but as well. It's another wrestling.

Reference Roddy Piper is to say just when you've got all the answers I change the questions. No seriously it was just a very joyous moment and I think that's maybe there's something in that. Let's sleep on it or think about it while we hear from our sponsors once and messages and Community announcements. Thanks, of course, to this programs sponsor go kindly and in the meantime yeah a couple of messages then come back, wrap up the show. So one more thing to cover today and again, huge content note that is the issue of follow-up of a shooting in the u.s. now a huge content note here for transphobia now. Let's get something right, no one should be shooting another human being in that sense.

It's not appropriate, you know, horrible that people have died and you know deep condolences to family and friends. It's the reporting afterwards which just is obviously I think well decent people have a right to feel frustrated by is just the start of a epidemic of shoe of shooting by trans people. Well, funnily enough when you know cisgender men shoot people, there's never an arm a statement of always there an epidemic.

Mimic yet and all of, you know, cisgender men shooting people, you know, when difficult note but it has to be said here. When there's women, you know, who are murdered in the city, in situations of domestic violence, do we hear about an epidemic? No, I don't even want to think how many women have been lost to domestic violence already in Australia, this year? I'm pretty sure we're well over 50 and that's whatever it is. It's 50 me.

Even if it's one to one too many and you can imagine that if we did say are cisgender men are on a shooting epidemic you could hear the cries of Alec Not all men come from shock shock jock wannabes and others further to the right. You could hear them from in Dandenong from Melbourne without a radio signal. So all I can say to trans people. Allies decent humans is sort of, let's rebut the nonsense. Let's keep our cool.

And all that sort of thing, and make sure that we sort of can keep doing that. But it is frustrating. Obviously, when, you know, we have to deal with these these bits of nonsense all the time, it's really really stressful and bewildering. So I did just want to throw that note in. But as I say in what with the words of a sponsor, go kindly this show does come together sometimes.

You know, look after yourself next week on the show, I'll be chatting with Paula Gerber about a new book, she's put out as an Allied of trans people. So that'll be great. And there's a couple of launch events one at the pride Center and one readings in Carlton. So one South one North. We've got rid of that divided already. See how he, how easy is. It just due to book launches. That's always a nice idea. Seriously, look forward to that, but I'll take

Take it out today. As I said, with Wendy Rule and a track from the album. The Lotus Eaters and Hecate. Thanks for tuning in to out of the pan. I'm Sally goldner. Catch you next week.
